

SEN. KELLOGG NEW BRITISH AMBASSADOR

Minnesota Man, Friend of Harding, Succeeds Harvey—Facts Past
Involving Extreme
Delicacy

WAS MEMBER FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE

Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Frank B. Kellogg, former United States Senator from Minnesota, has been selected for American Ambassador to London. He succeeds George Harvey, who recently resigned. The appointment is expected to become effective soon. He is 66 years old. Kellogg was a personal friend of the late President Harding, and is a lawyer by profession. During his single term he served in the senate he devoted considerable time to foreign affairs and was a leader of the "mild reservationists" in the Versailles treaty fight. He also served as a member of the foreign relations committee. The appointment comes at a time when many questions in connection with the German reparations tangle may be decided and the new ambassador is sure to find himself involved in many delicate negotiations.

CHILD WELFARE BUREAU URGED

Kentucky Social Workers Ask
Establishment During Next Year

By Associated Press.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 26.—Establishment of a Children's Bureau for Kentucky was urged here at a conference of social workers. In order to accomplish this it was decided to recommend to the Child Welfare Commission that it interest in the project of getting the 1924 legislative appropriation for the establishment of a Children's Bureau in this state. The idea back of such a bureau, it was brought out at the conference, was an organized body that would interest itself in boys and girls. Miss Katherine Lenroot, daughter of Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin, and assistant chief of the Children's Bureau at Washington in an address before the conference said that outside of Louisville, there is practically no detention service for erring children, and that these children caught in wrong doing are consequently lodged in jail. Miss Lenroot said that being placed in jail instead of in the hands of a competent maternal or official often tends to develop a "great evil" spirit in the child. The greatest service which such a bureau might render would be to bring together private and public agencies for the welfare of the child, said C. C. Carstens, director of the Child Welfare League of America. George L. Schou, president of the Kentucky Children's Home, at Lydon, said that a Children's Bureau in regard to feeble minded children would be able to recommend solutions of problems in child welfare which are bound to be exceedingly difficult by both public and private institutions and individuals. The plan of the bureau was outlined by Miss Frances Ingram, Louisville, chairman of the local social service workers, who said that if a bureau were established in each county, it would insure welfare work throughout the state.

The deceased is survived by two sons, J. H. and Cordell Martin; six daughters, Mrs. Jane Givens, Mrs. Lizzie Miracle, Mrs. Lydia Mhade, Mrs. Lucinda Barnett, Mrs. Winnie Carter and Mrs. Nancy Ann Martin.

WEST END MAN BITTEN BY RATTLESNAKE IS RECOVERING

Lige Johnson, West End resident who was bitten by a rattlesnake nearly two weeks ago, is apparently improving though his arm and hand are still badly swollen, the wound causing the flesh to be black. His improved condition is a surprise to physicians who regarded the injury as more serious.

FULL SURVEY ROAD STATUS IS COMPILED

Asheville Motor Club Seeks to Bring Middle West to Florida Tourists This Way, Shortest Route

TELL CONDITIONS OF ENTIRE HIGHWAY LENGTH

The officers of the Asheville Western Carolina Motor Club (formerly Asheville Motor Club) after one year's hard work are about to bring to a successful conclusion the most far-reaching and progressive plan that in their opinion and in the opinion of sound thinking business men will automatically double the tourist population of Western Carolina and lengthen the season by at least four months. One year ago the Motor Club officials started its campaign to eliminate every bad gap in the main highway from Cincinnati to Lexington, Ky., Mt. Vernon, London, Corbin, to Knoxville and thence to Newport, Tenn., and thence to Hot Springs, N. C., through Western North Carolina to Greenville, S. C., and thence to Florida. Every day since they have been presenting accurate statistics to people living along this great central scenic short route to Western North Carolina and Florida, showing the cash loss to each town by reason of bad gaps on the highway. These statistics have been presented at meetings, by letter, and by personal interviews continuously. Here is the result: New construction work was started between Cincinnati and Lexington, Ky., so rapidly that we are now assured that we are now assured that every mile of this section will be in fine condition by March, 1924. Hard surfaced. Road all good to Richmond, Ky., and between there and Mt. Vernon. Judging from the rapidity with which all weak links are being built, surfaced, this link will all be in good wet and dry weather shape by March, 1924.

Mt. Vernon to London. Between Mt. Vernon and London, there are now in October but 12 miles of new grade not under permanent construction, and when on their recent inspection trip into this section your Motor Club officials were finally assured that $75,000 would be provided at once for putting a gravel and rock surface on this connecting link. From London to Corbin, the road is new and will be maintained in good safe condition. Good safe rock road. From Corbin to Knoxville there are two routes, via Jellico and via Middlesboro.

Via Jellico, Corbin to Williamsburg, a good hard surfaced penetration oil rock road will be completed this fall. There is a weak link from Williamsburg to Jellico, (Tennessee-Kentucky line).

When in Williamsburg your officers were assured that permanent maintenance would be kept on this link, by representative State Highway Commission. Jellico to LaFollette: Following statistics presented to Jellico (Campbell county, Tenn.) last winter a contract was let for a good penetration road from Jellico to Jacksboro. Eighteen miles of this already completed and only five more miles to go. This will eliminate the bad mountain road between Jellico and LaFollette on the road to Jacksboro. We are assured a permanent maintenance crew will also be kept on the road to Jacksboro. Jacksboro to Coal Creek. A new asphalt road is being completed. This will not be finished within a year, so a good detour road is available from a point near Jacksboro to Middlesboro and thence south.

Tennessee Road Rough. Coal Creek to Clinton and Knoxville. This section is now hard surfaced. Rough in spots.

Now grade will be completed from Corbin to Paducahville by November 15, distance 16 miles, and on November 15 bids are to be opened for surfacing with reinforced concrete. In the meantime a detour of 11 miles on a county road will be used.

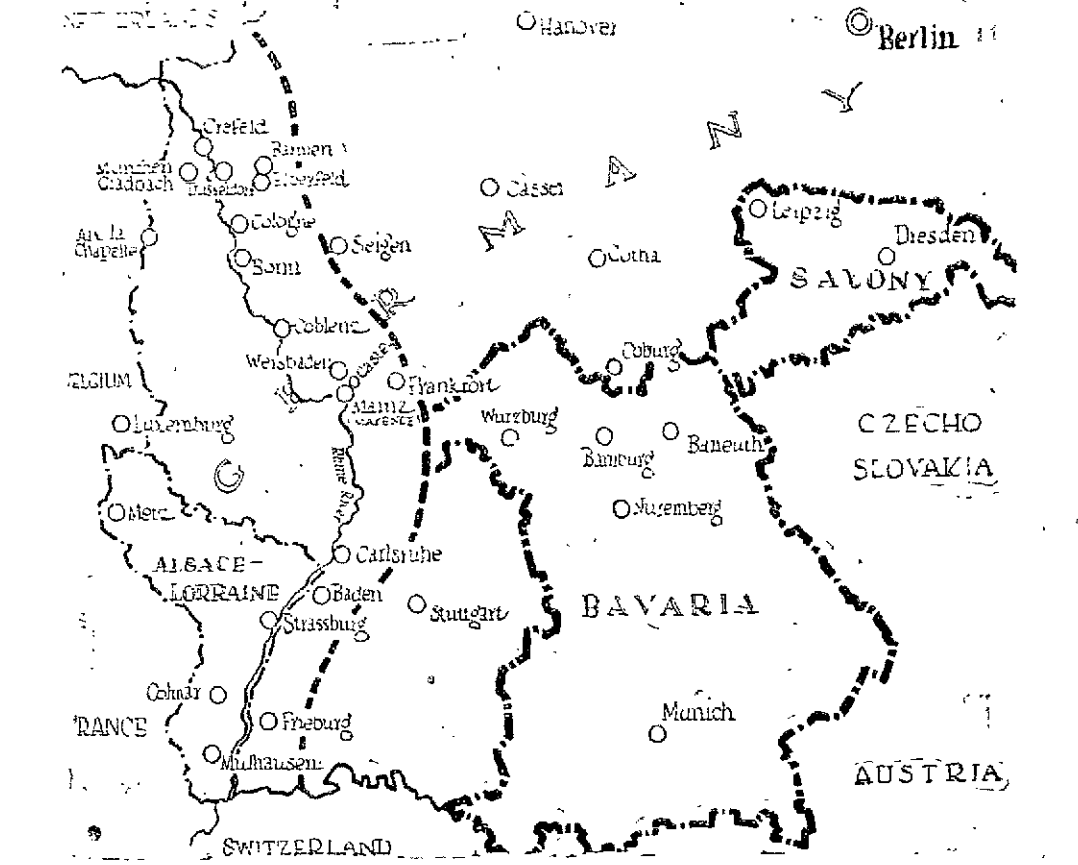

From Paducahville to Pineville, a distance of 14 miles, a fine concrete highway with asphalt top has just been completed.

From Pineville to Middlesboro, a distance of 8 miles, there is a first class penetration asphalt rock road.

From Middlesboro to Cumberland Gap, a distance of four miles, a fine penetration road is finished.

GERMAN SECESSIONISTS FOSTER CIVIL WAR MOVE; "BUFFER STATE" IS SEEN

CENTRAL GERMANY AND THE DISTRICTS WHICH THREATEN SEPARATION FROM THE "REICH."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Is Germany breaking up? Is the empire dissolving into a group of independent states, such as existed before Bismarck federated them in 1870-71? The next few days probably will show. The separation movement has taken most definite shape in the Rhineland, the strip of territory south of the Netherlands, north of Switzerland, west of the heavy dotted line marked on the map between the Netherlands and the Swiss frontiers, and east of the Belgian and French borders, on or almost on which are the cities of Aix la Chapelle, Strassburg and Mulhausen. Separationist forces have seized Aix la Chapelle, Munchen Gladbach, Crefeld, Juelich, Montjoie, Cleve and Duren. They want Cologne, to make it their capital, and also the important town of Mainz. Bavaria and Saxony are on the verge of a fight between themselves and both are defiant of the German republican government. Bavaria's Royal Leaning. Trouble between the two states arises from Bavaria's preference for establishment of a royalist regime, with Prince Rapprecht as king, and Saxony's tendency toward communism. Bavaria is too monarchial in its views for the Berlin government and Saxony is too "red." The Bavarian state government not only will pay no attention to orders from Berlin but is described as having "kidnapped" the troops Berlin sent into Bavaria to try to prevent secession. Berlin has threatened to use armed force against the Saxon "reds" and Saxony has defied such a step. Reds Join Saxons. Thuringia, the territory north of Bavaria and east of Saxony, inclines to be "red" and to join the Saxons. The country between Bavaria and the region of the Franco-Belgian occupation probably will be included either in Bavaria or the Rhineland republic if the separation movement goes on. One theory is that the north and south German states may split into two separate groups. This would mean an agreement between such clashing states as Pomerania and Saxony, which looks difficult, but is suggested, nevertheless. Berlin is said to be thinking also of issuing a defiance to France, because of its failure to pay reparations, and to unite all the German states again.

HARLAN TRAIN TO CHANGE TIME AGAIN

Will Leave Middlesboro at 6 a. m. After
Nov. 12—Early Hour
Unsatisfactory

The time of the morning train for Harlan changed the first of October to leave here at 5 a. m., will be changed again Monday, November 12, to leave Middlesboro at 6 a. m. It was announced by the T. & N. offices today. This last change was made because of the general unsatisfactory manifest because of the early hour for leaving Middlesboro.

The train originally left here at 5:45 a. m. The time was changed to the earlier hour because it was believed it would be more satisfactory to leave Pineville earlier and so reach Harlan earlier. It was found, however, that this would not be satisfactory. The train after the change will get in Pineville at 6:35 and leave there at 7:10. It now leaves Pineville at 6:20, getting to Harlan almost an hour earlier.

The Kiwanis Club had a committee headed by J. E. Evans at work to bring about the change in time and a petition with a number of names on it had been prepared though it had not yet been presented.

KIDNAPPED GIRL AT CUMBERLAND GAP. LETTER SHOWS

Opal Lee Richards, 13 year old girl of the West End who was kidnapped some time ago, is at Cumberland Gap and enjoying the exile from her mother, according to a letter which the latter received from here recently. The child did not state where she was staying or disclose the identity of her kidnapper, though the letter was postmarked Cumberland Gap.

Her mother, Mrs. Lola Helton, has been greatly worried over the absence of the child and has tried to find her since the receipt of the letter but without avail. It is thought that the girl's father engaged another man to abduct her.

HALLOWEEN WILL BE CELEBRATED HERE BY MANY FIRE PARTIES

With Halloween less than a week distant, plans are being made to celebrate the occasion in an appropriate manner. Spooks and witches will inhabit Middlesboro for the night, judging from the preparations now being made and the unusual quantity of Halloween goods sold.

Local dealers have already sold out most of their supplies of this kind and it is almost impossible to buy even a mask. Some cats and pumpkins and other decorations may be procured.

A great deal of fun and frolic is expected for the night. Local citizens would do well to put extra fastening on their gates and to not leave any portable object outside.

Most of the young people are planning to attend parties, a large number of these having been scheduled. Some Halloween parties have already been held and others are expected before Wednesday night.

Halloween, a continuation of Hallowe'en, has been in vogue since the fourth century, though it did not become general until five centuries later. It was originally called All Saints Day and was a day in which all the saints were honored by the ancient Roman Catholics. Later it became known as All-Hallow Day. Superstitious folks of ancient times believe that departed spirits roamed the earth on this particular night, hence, the modern celebration of the event by use of spooks, costumes and weird ceremonies.

It being a night when spirits held sway on earth, it was the popular belief that by properly catering to the whims of these astral beings, strange ailments could be worked and the future foretold. Even in these modern times, there are maidens who shyly seek the identity of their soul-mate by working mystic charms.

PLAY LA FOLLETTE HERE TOMORROW

Local Football Team All Set for Big Game—Entire Squad May Be Used

The M. H. S. football team is "all set" for the battle with LaFollette grid iron warriors at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon at the East End ball park. Members of the team are in prime condition, according to Coach John T. Kilpatrick, and the local boys hope to attach a fifth scalp to their collection this season. The entire squad will be used in the game if a safe score can be run up. Mr. Kilpatrick stated, though if the game is close, only the first team will be put on the field.

The fence around the ball park has been completed since the last game, making it necessary for all who see the game to pay the usual fee.

The lineup for the Middlesboro team which is the same as was used for the last game, follows:

Evans		Callison
McGinnney		Griffith
Gibson		Faulkner
Haynes		Vanbender
Stone		King
Sewell

M. H. S. will play the Maryville high school team here at 3 o'clock next Friday afternoon. Coach Kilpatrick says this will be the hardest game of the season.

FULLER BRUSH COMPANY ESTABLISHES OFFICE HERE

The Fuller Brush Co., through its district manager, W. S. Moffitt of Cincinnati, and its district manager, S. M. Adams of Lexington, who were here yesterday looking over the situation, has established an office in Middlesboro. This city now will be headquarters of the Kentucky Mountain section, comprising 19 counties. This section will be in charge of D. H. Alderson, who has represented the company here since July.

Middlesboro is coming to be recognized more and more as the logical headquarters and distributing center of a large and rapidly developing territory.

LADIES NIGHT BIG OCCASION FOR KIWANIS

G. H. Talbott, Chairman—Enjoyable Program Includes Scout Pageant, Style Show and Other Features

DINING ROOM DECORATED IN HALLOWEEN STYLE

Entirely enjoyable in every aspect was the Kiwanis ladies' night last night, held in the main dining room of the Hotel Cumberland. The decorations, entertainment and features, all a departure from the usual program, were carried out to perfection, appreciation for which was shown by a vote of thanks given G. H. Talbott, who was chairman for the evening and responsible for the entire entertainment. The room was filled to capacity. The Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts were guests of honor for the occasion and as such were seated at two large tables in the middle of the room, with their leaders, Mrs. H. H. Saunders and Mrs. W. C. Blair for the girls and Philip Arthur for the boys.

The dining room was attractively decorated in Halloween style and the work was done by the Scouts under the direction of Mrs. Saunders and Mrs. Blair. Realistic owls served as light shades, black cat, witches, bats, and pumpkins were strewn lavishly over the walls and tables, and pumpkins full of fruit stood in the center of the tables. A dais in the far southern end of the room was elaborately decorated in crepe paper and from the chandeliers hung crepe paper streamers and black owls. A Halloween cap was given each guest as he entered the dining room. Magic was furnished by Watt's orchestra and chorus singing during the evening was led by Warren Rash.

Preceding the program proper, President Liebig introduced three speakers for short talks. The first was Mrs. D. G. Hinks, president of the local Women's Club, announcing the Red Cross roll call to be put on next month. This roll call, she explained, was necessary in order to keep the Red Cross chapter to respond readily when solicited for the year's membership fee. Mrs. R. L. Maddox is in charge of the campaign.

Read Men Talk

Following her, N. Buckner, manager in secretary of the Asheville Motor Club, gave an interesting talk on the possibilities for this section from the tourists who pass from the middle west to Florida annually. He praised the mountain scenery and Middlesboro with its wide streets, as well as the possibilities this location has because of its proximity to Cumberland Gap. He declared that if the roads improved as they were expected to, within 20 months from 75,000 to 125,000 tourists will pass this way, attracted by this city, many may stop and make this their home. Mr. Buckner pointed out, too, that the road is from 500 to 800 miles shorter this way than the eastern route by Washington, D. C. and 150 to 300 miles shorter than the western route, through Louisville, Nashville and Chattanooga.

Charles O'Connor, field manager for the Asheville Western Carolina Motor Club, followed Mr. Buckner. He spoke of the great saving to tourists if they came this direct route, declaring that the saving would amount to $21,000,000 a year. Elaborating Mr. Buckner's last idea, he showed how tourists from the north, most of them persons of means, would be attracted to this section when they pass through and this would undoubtedly lead to the establishment of new factories and industries here. Then Mr. O'Connor presented his big idea, for an interstate tour in which representatives from Middlesboro, Greenville, Asheville and other places interested should make a trip to Florida in the early spring, showing the advantages of the road through here, urging the tourists to return this way, and presenting to them the advantages of their respective cities.

Several Prizes Drawn

After this the meeting was turned over to G. H. Talbott who conducted, first of all, the drawing for prizes. The Boy Scout prize, given by R. L. Kneid, went to Jack Avent; the Girl Scout prize, given by Mr. Talbott, went to Lola Smith; the prize given by A. C. Shelburne went to Mrs. John Burnett; the one given by J. S. Wright went to Mrs. H. C. Chappell; the one given by Theo. Zimmerman to Mrs. M. G. Hubbard; the one by F. R. Whalin to Miss Emma Hayes; and the one by (continued on page four)

Law Violators

Associated Press
COVINGTON, Oct. 26.—Motions were filed in the circuit court and in the Federal court here today by Shelly Rouse, president of the Kenton county bar association, requesting the courts to disbar Commonwealth Attorney Ware and District Attorney Sawyer Smith to file specific charges against Harry J. Meyers of Covington. Meyers, who is a representative in the Kentucky legislature from the 63 district, is accused of accepting $250 from a client with the understanding, according to charges, that he use his influence with the court to procure a light sentence for clients charged with violating prohibition laws. His clients were contained to the penitentiary last week. Motions filed today would require Meyers to show cause why he should not be disbarred.

A THOUGHT

Every way of a man is right in his own eyes; but the Lord pondereth the hearts.—Prov. 21:2.

TAKING COUNSEL FROM WESTERN CAROLINA'S WORK

The work of the Asheville Western Carolina Motor club in popularizing a north and south route to Florida, thus bringing thousands of tourists through Asheville and Western Carolina who might have gone another route, commands itself to the attention of the people of this section. This club by means of the incessant activity of its officers and by the systematic advertising of the route has accomplished wonders for their section, and the results are so remarkable that boosters of Southeastern Kentucky should take notice. A group of boosters in Asheville have gotten together and consistently worked for their section, sending out touring parties for inspecting the roads leading to Asheville from both the North and South, reporting on the condition of the roads, and advertising the beauties and wonders of Carolina. Their success is eloquent evidence of what can be done by other sections.

Middlesboro is located on a strategic highway. It is in a historic section, famed throughout the nation. Even the boosters from North Carolina admit that the beauties of this section are almost unrivaled in America. Already the condition of the highway connecting Middlesboro with the North and South is in good condition, and it will soon be the preferred route of the Dixie Highway. Hundreds of tourists are passing through our city each month, even without any special advertising, and this number will increase month by month. We will naturally benefit from this travel each way, but the possibilities of increasing this tourist trade are absolutely unlimited and we are sleeping on the job.

If Middlesboro were to go after this business as systematically and as consistently as the Asheville Motor Club the results even in a year's time would be astounding. We are not capitalizing our advantages as we should. We are not promoting our building with a united front. We are not letting the world know what we have. Asleep and inactive, we let golden chances of building up our section go by, and the western part of the state and other sections gather the harvest.

The representatives of the Asheville Western Carolina club will make a report in a little while which will help Middlesboro to co-operate in a general movement for the improvement of the roads leading to and from this section and for the advertising of the wonders of the Cumberland. When this report is made, our people will have something concrete to consider and will be able to act intelligently on a project far bigger than any citizen of this county realizes. The time has come when we must lend a hand with other sections in exploiting the advantages of Middlesboro and in advertising this route through the mountains as the preferred route from every standpoint.

NIGHT LIFE FLOURISHES DESPITE BERLIN POLICE

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—Since reformers started out earnestly to put an end to the all night cafe life of Berlin, ingenious bootleggers have conceived all sorts of schemes to outwit the police. Despite the regulations, all-night cafes have been exceedingly popular here, and bring in handsome profits for their managers.

Clandestine canteens and drinking places have been springing up like mushrooms, chiefly for the benefit of prostitutes and their friends who usually do not feel like going to their homes when ousted by the police at midnight from the downtown licensed cafes. The bootlegging joints are easily found. To the late diners in the regulation cafes, the addresses of the secret resorts usually come unsolicited in whispers from the waiters. Many of these waiters have an interest in the illicit places, or else receive fees regularly for their "good will."

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON, CONTINUED

My knees trembled beneath me, Syd, as I tried to open the door to Leslie. At that moment the baby was awakened in the long second and began to cry.

With a muttered curse I opened the door and looked into the white face of my wife. "Did you get in, did you get in?" I asked.

She did not answer but pushed me aside and went through into the inner room. I followed quickly and found her kneeling at the crib.

I still have a moment's time to tell you that old Nannie had been called on to look after her sick daughter and had left Jimmy with me the night before. The baby had not had any food during the night. He had evidently sucked the clothes off for the little body was blue and shivering with cold. He was alternately crying and choking with a sudden gasping cough.

I knelt beside Leslie. Honestly, Syd, I was ashamed and I tried to tell Leslie so but she would have nothing to do with me.

"Go away," she said. "You've not only sent me out to do your contemptible bidding, but you probably allowed this innocent child almost to die while I am gone."

"When I return you have nothing to say but, 'Let that pass alone.' You call this baby dead? When only a few months ago you declared to me that you thought of him exactly as though he were your own child."

"Can't you understand, Le-le?" I pleaded, "that it is because I think of little Jack as my own child that I speak so of him?"

"Where is Nannie?" she asked, and then I had to tell her that it was through my neglect that the baby was in such a condition.

"Draw me some hot water immediately," was her only comment. The child has a chill."

I hastened to comply, but I could not resist the question, "Did you get the money?"

Leslie seemed to look straight through me as though I were not there. She was undressing the baby and when she had finished, walking directly toward me in a way that made me feel that I had stepped on a mine.

For hours afterward she completely ignored me, ministering to the baby, telephoning for the doctor and giving directions to Nannie when she returned.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE TWINS START OFF FOR DIXIE LAND

She handed Nick a paper with a long list of names on it.

"Have you ever been to Dixie Land, children?" asked the Fairy Queen.

"Dixie Land?" repeated Nancy and Nick eagerly. "Where is that?"

The Fairy Queen laughed. "You've never been there, dears, or you wouldn't ask that question. You would clearly remember, for Dixie Land is a fine big place. It's the whole south. Didn't you ever hear a song about:

"Away down south in the land of cotton,
Cinnamon fields and sandy bottom,
I'll away, I'll away, I'll away, I'll away?"

"Yes, we have!" answered both the Twins together. "Is that Dixie Land?"

"It certainly is!" said the Fairy Queen.

"Does cinnamon grow there?" Nick wanted to know. "Is that why they're called 'cinnamon fields'?"

"No!" The Fairy Queen shook her head. "They are called that because in many places the soil is a rich reddish brown, exactly the color of cinnamon. And in many places there is a lot of sand, especially along the rivers and river valleys. That's called 'sandy-bottom,' and good for many things to grow in. You'll like Dixie Land because it's different in many ways from the places you have been in."

"Are we going with one of your fairy helpers?" asked Nick.

"No, my dears, I'm sending you by Nimble-Toes, the Fairy Queen's door-keeper. I want you to go around keeper, howed them out.

and visit all of my friends there, the birds and wood folk and water folk and see if they are happy. Let me know at once if there is anything they need. Wear these magic shoes and they will not only save you from danger but help you to travel quickly. A wish will take you any place you want to go. There are the addresses of some of my friends."

And she handed Nick a paper with a long list of names on it.

"Some of them are hard to read," explained the Fairy Queen when she saw Nick's puzzled look, "but you'll have no trouble making them out, for the magic shoes will help you to do many things that you could not do otherwise. What is the first place you are to go?"

"This says Philander and Philomena Possum, Buttonwood Tree, Near-the-Creek. On-the-old-Plantation," read the little boy.

"My, oh, my!" laughed the Fairy Queen kindly. "I haven't heard from her for months. I wonder what she is doing. Possums are always in trouble and always up to mischief, but they have as many troubles of their own as they give to other people, I think. And they are the bravest little people I know. Well, you'd better be starting. Tell Philomena Possum not to eat too many persimmons and to watch out for 'coon dogs. Good-by!"

"Goodby!" cried Nancy and Nick as Nimble-Toes, the Fairy Queen's door-keeper, howed them out.

Berton Braley's Poem

LOYALTIES

As a man can love the ranges
And the peaks that pierce the sky,
With a love that never changes
That shall hold him till he die:
As a man can love the spaces
Where the desert stretches bare,
Or the cool dim forest places
And the fragrant piney air.

As a man can love the ocean
And the salt wind blowing free
Over all the rounded motion
Of the everlasting sea:
As a man can love the wonder
Of the busy tropic night,
On the face that crash and thunder Underneath the Northern Light.

As a man can love the human Real devotion of a friend,
As a man can love the woman
With a love that knows no end:
As a man can love the city,
With its hum and bustle and stone,
And the crowds which fill a city
And let's pray to call his own!

The Epicurean

Upon the everlasting tide
Into the silent seas we go;
But venture laughs along the shore,
And on the margin roses blow.

Not life, nor death, nor aught they hold
Rate thou above their natural height;
Yet learn that all our eyes behold
Has value, if we meet it right.

Pluck then the flowers that line the stream,
Instead of fighting with its power;
But pluck as flowers, not gems nor deem
That they will bloom beyond their hour.

Whate'er betide, from day to day
An even pulse and spirit keep,
And like a child worn out with play,
When wearied with existence, sleep.

—Sir Francis Hastings Doyle.

Missionary Society

Meets Yesterday

The Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, South, met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. K. McClure. Mrs. D. Z. Gibson, president of the society, presided. Mrs. J. H. McGibney gave the lesson and had charge of the program. Mrs. H. A. McCamy, president of the local W. C. T. U., came before the society telling of the work of the W. C. T. U. and asking for members. Miss Bessie Edwards gave a reading.

how good it's going to taste when you have cooked it. And you wonder how on earth you do cook the things!

Perhaps you have recipes handed down from mother to daughter. Our great-grandmothers relished the fresh meat and appreciated it as we don't in this day and age. Today it means something "different" for our satiated appetites, or we enjoy it because "John" brought it home by his own efforts.

As squirrel provides a rather light meat course let the accompanying vegetables be quite substantial. The salad should be a simple green affair with a French dressing and the dessert of fruit in some form.

"Brunswick stew" is an old, old dish from Virginia. This is a bona fide Virginia recipe from a famous southern cook:

Brunswick Stew

Three squirrels, 3 slices fat salt pork, 2 medium sized onions, 3 large potatoes, 2 cups corn, 1 cup lima beans, 4 cups tomatoes, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, 4 quarts boiling water, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour.

The original recipe uses green corn cut from the cob. The amount of butter can be decreased to two tablespoons and the stew be quite rich enough.

Clean, wash and disjoint squirrels. Let stand in cold water to cover for an hour. Drain. Chop salt pork very fine. Put a layer in a broad flat, iron pot, add minced onions, potatoes cut in very thin slices. Add a layer of corn, beans and all the squirrels. Cover squirrels with pork, onions, potatoes, corn and beans. Season each layer with black pepper and just a dash of cayenne. Pour over boiling water, cover tightly and stew gently three hours. Add tomatoes, salt and sausage and stew an hour longer. Work flour and butter together and stir into stew. Boil three minutes and serve.

Squirrel Pie

Two or three squirrels, 1 large onion, 1 lemon, 3 slices fat salt pork, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups water, 1/2 pint flour.

Skin and dress squirrels. Wash and disjoint. Put into cold salt water to cover for an hour. Drain. Put into a kettle, pour over boiling water to cover, add whole onion and simmer at the boiling point for half an hour. Drain. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Roll in flour. Try out fat from salt pork and skin out crisp pork and fry squirrels to a golden brown in the fat. Arrange squirrels in a deep baking dish. Stir flour into fat in spider. Add water slowly, stirring constantly. Let boil two minutes and pour over squirrels. Cover with biscuit dough and bake in a hot oven for 15 minutes.

Squirrel Stew

Three squirrels, 2 green peppers, 1 onion, 2 cups diced carrots, 1-2 cup rice, 1-2 cup diced celery, 3 cups canned tomatoes, bacon fat, salt and pepper, flour.

Clean and disjoint squirrels. Let stand in salt water to cover for half an hour. Drain. Season flour with salt and pepper and roll pieces of squirrel in it. Melt bacon fat and fry meat to a golden brown. Remove from frying pan to kettle. Remove seeds and pith from peppers and cut in shreds. Peel and slice onion. Cook peppers and onion in bacon fat in which squirrel was cooked until onions are a pale straw color. Add to squirrels. Pour over six cups of boiling water, cover tightly and simmer two hours. Add carrots, rice, celery and tomatoes and simmer an hour longer. Add water as necessary.

Squirrels are delicious broiled and if you are "out in the open" cooking over a wood fire there is no better way to cook them. The lemon juice may be out of the question for outdoors cooking.

Broiled Squirrel

Skin, clean and split down the back. Let stand half an hour in salt water to cover. Drain and sprinkle with lemon juice. Cover with very thin slice of bacon and broil over or under a hot fire. Turn frequently when meat begins to drip.

FILIPINO PROTECTING DOG KILLS FATHER WITH BOLA

By Associated Press.

MANILA, Oct. 26.—Because he too actively backed up his declaration that "You can't kick my dog around, even if he is an old hound," Benito Andral is in jail. Pedro Andral, his father, is dead and Patricio Andral, Benito's brother, is in a serious condition at a hospital.

Benito took exception to his brother Patricio's treatment of Benito's dog, and drew his bola. The father of the boys intervened, receiving bolo wounds of which he died within a few minutes. Patricio was badly wounded. Benito was arrested by the constabulary and now faces a charge of murder.

HUNT AT BLUE GOOSE IS WILD GOOSE CHASE

Police officers, headed by Chief H. E. Ball, raided the Blue Goose restaurant on Nineteenth street yesterday afternoon in a search for liquor but it was on the premises a thorough search of the establishment and the out-buildings at the rear failed to disclose it. The officers had received information to the effect that liquor was stored on the premises and were armed with a search warrant.

EMIGRATION TO UNITED STATES ALARMS OFFICIALS OF NORWAY

By Associated Press.

CHRISTIANIA, Oct. 26.—A series of conferences of a semi-official nature are shortly to take place under the aegis of the Norwegian Home Office to consider the best means of stopping the constant exodus to Norwegian subjects to America.

During the last twelve months the number of emigrants from the country has reached an alarming figure, so much so that the military authorities in some districts cannot obtain the necessary quotas of men for the yearly conscriptive training.

One suggestion being put forward is that the sparsely populated northern provinces of Norway should be colonized, the colonists to be encouraged by state aid to cultivate the land, form communities and otherwise utilize the vast areas that are as yet entirely wild.

son of the University of Kentucky on large tracts of land situated in Breathitt, Knott and Perry counties, and will include experimentation in agriculture, stock raising and reforestation. In accepting the lease of the land, the University does so under provisions set forth by the donor of the fund.

The project is one of great extent and entails much preparation and planning, according to Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University who visited the land. The university hopes to make an early start on the program and visits have already been made by representatives of the university to the Eastern Kentucky properties.

Rendered Fat
Save all fats from beef, veal, pork be used in place of butter in many instances.

Smooth Puddings
All puddings that should be smooth

USE HEMSTITCHING TO JOIN

YOKE TO THIS DRESS

An attractive and simple way to put this dress together is with machine hemstitching.

plain seam (as around the top of the sleeve) for hemstitching, and Figure 2 shows how to prepare the gathered part under the yoke.

Turn under the edge of the yoke on the seam allowance and baste the fold, clipping the edge around the curve to make it lie flat. Gather between notches as indicated on the pattern. Baste the folded edge over the plain or gathered edge, notches matched, and have it hemstitched, allowing one thread of the hemstitching to just cover the edge of the yoke. Trim off the raw edge on the wrong side close to the hemstitching. The hem line might also be hemstitched.

This makes a firm seam and adds

a pretty trimming line to the dress.

This hemstitching is best suited to sheer soft materials as georgette, chif-fon voile and lace.

establishment of a hot school lunch is knowledge on the part of the teacher as to food and its relations to health, so that she can influence the child.
In the second place school authorities must see to it that the school lunch standards are kept up so that it will be an educational factor in the school. In the third place the financial arrangement should be such that the income from the sale of the lunch lays for only those things directly connected with it. In no case should it be conducted for profit.

ALL-WINTER FLOWERS

The small expense and little effort required for a beautiful window box make it possible for every home-loving woman to have one.

Window boxes can be kept charming for a whole season by filling them with hardy begonias and ferns. Primrose, the Chinese or common variety, and Irish ivies make a window box with a delightful color note.

For late autumn, if the room is kept cool, some of the darling little shry-santhemums in brown and yellow are effective and will last for several weeks.

For late winter or early spring, flowering bulbs may be used among the ferns.

Teapots

Teapots and coffee pots require careful cleaning daily. The leaves or grounds should be removed and the vessel rinsed in cold water, then rinsed with clear hot water. Then they should be scalded, wiped dry and placed where they may air thoroughly.

Inequality First Plank In Fashion's Platform.

"Resolved that all dresses are created unequal," reads the opening to Fashion's declaration of independence. It is high treason and lese majeste this season to have one side of your costume matching the other.
Asymmetry, foreshadowed this summer, appears as a charming actuality for the Fall.

So this costume of navy blue wool and silk crepe from the South Manchester looms proves itself to be politically fashionable and fashionably politic by following the Paris dictum of having the tunic ample on the left, if the fullness of the skirt is gathered on the right, and vice versa. The Russian influence is seen in the tunic banded with beaver, while the required note of Autumn comfort is provided by the long, close fitting sleeves with their cavalier flare at the wrist.

The practicality of the tunic fastening at the side will recommend itself to women whose daily dozen for the last two years has consisted in wild efforts to insert and extricate themselves from overhead slip-on blouses and dresses.

There is something eminently snug, cosy and trig about this costume which makes it a first choice for crisp fall days, for business, shopping, and other daytime occupations.

HOT LUNCHES BIG NEED

IN MORE RURAL SCHOOLS

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 26.—Hot school lunches to supplement the lunch children bring from their homes have been established in about 100 rural schools in Kentucky, but there is a big need for such lunches in more schools throughout the state, according to Miss Eleanor Enright, home economics specialist of the College of Agriculture. About 50 per cent of the country school children in Kentucky are under average weight, and 20 per cent of them are so far below average that they are physically subnormal, she says. This is not due to poverty, but to lack of knowledge on the part of parents as to food needs for children. The hot school lunch is not the sole remedy for this condition, but if carefully planned it would go a long way toward influencing the food consumption at home and bringing children up to the average weight, Miss Enright says.

The chief handicaps to establishment of hot school lunches in most rural schools of Kentucky are lack of space in buildings, heavy schedules of teachers and failure to realize the influence of proper food in mental as well as physical development of children. Hot school lunches already established in Kentucky are in all types of schools, from the one-room building where only hot soup or cocoa is served to those in country high schools where entire meals are served.
